

Permanet Tag Vehicle Inspections

I received word back from the Department of Motor Vehicles concerning the permanent tag inspection issue. All motor fleets that are issued permit tags will have the opportunity to stagger their Inspections over several months. Because they have permanent tags DMV will know which inspections are due in which month after the staggering period. A monthly report is generated at the division level and if your permit tag vehicle has not been inspected you will receive a visit from a DMV personnel.

In short it looks like you can decide which month your permanent tag vehicle's are inspected, but once you make that decision you have to be sure that is done on an annual basis. You are not exempted from inspection just because you have a permanent tag and it will depend on what month you decide as to when you're inspections are due. if you have any other questions, I'll be happy to work them for you.

Fred Bone
Bone and Associates